

NEW FIRST YEAR SEMINAR
SPRING '24

FORESTS AND PEOPLE GEOG 89

Tues/Thu 9:30-10:45am
220 Carolina Hall
Prof. Allred

Through collective exploration, students will deepen their understanding of the far-reaching impacts of forests on virtually every facet of our daily lives. By delving into how we are shaped by trees and how trees shape us, students in this course will learn about the diverse ways in which we use, value, and depend on forests. We cover global and domestic perspectives, art and literature about trees, and field trips to see the forests that make our campus unique.

Enroll now and explore the forests on our campus and around the globe!

General Education:
Ethical and Civic Value (FC-VALUE) and
Ways of Knowing (FC-KNOWING)